Sending Forth

The foundation for all our communication with God is a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. As we see in Samuel's call story, the first step in a life of service is to respond in faith to God's voice.

There may be other "voices" and barriers that prevent us from hearing God's voice. As we see in the story of Paul's on the road to Damascus, it took some "goadings" for God to get through to him. But we also see in this story a God who pursues us even when at first we resist his call.

What are the reasons that we so often fail to hear God's voice?

1. The competing voices all around us: the distractions, the lies, and the temptations coming from the world and from the enemy
2. The doubts and the fears that we buy in to: doubts about our own worthiness and fears that we are not good enough; doubts about God's power to save and fear about an unknown future as his disciple
3. Pride, and thinking we have it all together; not wanting to surrender or let go of control

And yet... we serve a God who can and will speak through all this, to reach you right where you are. All we need to do is respond in faith, as Samuel did, saying, "Speak! For your servant is listening."
